Political Observers Ponder 'Ike's' Summons

Democrat Nomination In Offing?

Monday-Tuesday Talks Booked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—It is believed today by many observers that President Truman has summoned Gen. Eisenhower to Washington to find out whether he wishes to be relieved as Allied commander in Europe and return to civilian life.

Eisenhower leaves Paris by plane tonight in response to a White House summons issued yesterday which said the general will confer with the President Monday and Tuesday.

Some of Ike's close associates say the entire matter may be clarified if Mr. Truman raises the question of a political future for the general or perhaps, flatly offers him the Democratic nomination.

The summons, perhaps by coincidence, arrived less than 24 hours before Sen. Carlson, (R) Kans., was to visit Eisenhower with the reported purpose of persuading the general to make the race on the GOP ticket.

Carlson, arriving in Bremerhaven yesterday, admitted he intended to "talk politics" with "General Ike" during his visit.

AN AUTHORITY source in Paris said Eisenhower does not know the reason for the announcement although it is understood he assumes the President wants to discuss the North Atlantic pact with him.

Whether the general and the commander-in-chief will talk any 1952 politics is a question only they can answer.

But political observers in Washington found it difficult to believe the two men, who had an understanding in 1948 that "Ike" would not run, then could review the future without touching on the presidential outlook.

At least one Eisenhower-for-President leader said he expects to see the general during his two-day Washington visit.

Sen. Duff, (R) Pa., generally recognized as eastern leader of the Eisenhower forces, made this clear and added that the pending visit will not alter his plans to see Eisenhower in Europe in December.

The Atlantic pact commander's tentative schedule will take him to Fort Knox, Ky., Sunday for a visit with his son, then bring him into Washington for conferences Monday and Tuesday. He is slated then to fly back to Paris.

THERE WAS some concrete evidence to support the idea that Mr. Truman believes it is time to find out when Eisenhower wishes to be relieved of his post and returned to civilian life.

First, the President has just received a thorough report from the North Atlantic situation from W. Averell Harriman, new head of the Mutual Security Administration, who recently finished a tour of the area.

Second, Harriman said in Washington he expected to see Eisenhower in Europe in a week, apparently not anticipating the general's flying trip to this country.

Third, the Joint Chiefs of Staff were said to have had no advance knowledge of the general's trip home for consultation.

British, Egyptian Diplomats Due For Talk Parley

CAIRO, Nov. 2—Egypt boosted hopes for a settlement of the Suez Canal dispute today by announcing that Foreign Minister Salah El Din Pasha will confer on the situation with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

The announcement said the meeting will be held shortly in Paris where top diplomats are assembling for the opening of the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

At the conference, El Din Pasha will outline Egypt's attitude on the abrogation of two Anglo-Egyptian treaties.

Egypt has demanded that British troops be evacuated from the Suez Canal Zone and that Britain give to Egypt exclusive control of the Sudan, which now is jointly ruled.

The step is one of the first signs that the dispute, which already has led to riots, armed clashes, work stoppages and blockades and counter-blockades, may be settled amicably.

Harriman, Churchill Talk; New British Loan Ahead?

LONDON, Nov. 2 — Presidential Envoy W. Averell Harriman arrived in London today amid reports the British cabinet is considering asking additional American aid for its critical economic situation.

Prime Minister Churchill met his ministers in a long cabinet session prior to lunching with Harriman and U. S. Ambassador Walter Gifford.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Harriman conferred at the foreign office, with Eden reported eager to get the American envoy's views on a possible reopening of talks in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

Informants said Harriman's talks with Churchill and Eden were aimed at learning how much economic aid Britain will need to complete and possibly expand Britain's $13 billion, three-year rearmament program.

THE CABINET worked on the speech to be presented by King George VI at the opening of parliament next Tuesday. The speech likely will outline drastic proposals for meeting the economic difficulties caused by a dwindling dollar reserve.

Two Bartenders Stabbed While Evicting Patron

Two Circleville bartenders were stabbed Thursday night while attempting to evict a man from the cafe in which they were working.

Injured in the fracas were Robert Tootle of 625 Watt street; assistant manager of Son's Grill, South Court street; and Dan Hughes of 160½ West Main street, a bartender in the tavern.

Police said the two men were stabbed by Herbert Ferguson, 56, of Stoutsville Route 1, whom they were attempting to remove from the premises.

Tootle suffered a deep puncture wound of his left arm and left side in the scuffle, while Hughes suffered a puncture wound of his side. Both men were treated in Berger hospital and were later returned to their homes.

Ferguson, meanwhile, was treated in the hospital for a mashed lip and deep lacerations of the left eye and nose. He is being held by police for investigation of cutting with intent to wound.

Phillips Slated To Take Stand

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2 — George Phillips, arm-armed Columbus insurance salesman, is expected to testify today or Monday in his own defense in the second degree murder of Mrs. Ruth Altier.

His attorney said part of Phillips' testimony will be directed towards establishing his whereabouts on the day of the brutal beating.

Six of the eleven defense witnesses testified yesterday to seeing the defendant between 8 a. m. and 10:55 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 1:35 p. m. on the day of the slaying.

Others are to fill in the gaps between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. and after 1:30 p. m.

January Draft Call Is Hiked

Nearly 60,000 To Get 'Greetings'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—The Defense Department today issued the largest monthly draft call since last March, calling for the induction of nearly 60,000 men in January.

The men inducted in January will go into the Army and Marine Corps. Of the total, 48,000 will be drafted into the Army while 11,650 men will be assigned to the Marines. The actual total is 59,650.

The January call compares to a request for the drafting of only 16,900 men in December, when inductions will be suspended for 12 days because of the holiday season.

The draft call for November was for 39,000 men who also will be distributed between the Army and Marine Corps. The Air Force and Navy have not yet asked for draftees.

TODAY'S announcement explained that the large call in January is to compensate for the suspension of inductions for the Christmas season.

The Defense Department said the January call is in line with the program to build up the Army and Marine Corps under previously announced goals.

It was revealed Thursday that the Defense Department with President Truman's approval is planning to bring 1.2 million new men into the armed forces next year to boost the total fighting strength to 3.9 million.

Although only 800,000 able-bodied men come of military age in 1952, Pentagon sources expressed confidence that the needed increase can be obtained from the present draft pool and from the reserves without calling up fathers or veterans.

They also declared that Universal Military Training, if approved by Congress, can be started next year with 50,000 men between the ages of 18 and 18½ who are not now subject to draft.

Jaycees Want Plenty Of Voters

Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce sees no reason why everyone should not cast ballots in Tuesday's election.

In addition to painting "vote" reminders on the city streets, the Jaycees will provide free taxi service to the polls all day Tuesday and will also offer free baby sitters to mothers who otherwise could not get away from home.

Both services can be reserved by phoning 790.

2 Drunk Drivers Lose Rights For Full Year Here

Two autoists—convicted drunken drivers—were relieved of their driving privileges for one year each Thursday in Pickaway County common pleas court.

They were James T. Smith, 41, of Columbus, and James Okey Kirk, 45, of Waverly.

Smith was arrested Tuesday on Route 23 by Constable Harry Timmons while Kirk was arrested Wednesday on South Court street by Officers Bob Temple and Charles Smith.

Both Smith and Kirk received fines of $10 and costs each, 30-day sentences in jail and both lost their driving rights for one year.

The jail sentences were suspended in favor of 18-months probation for each.

The men were presented before Judge William D. Radcliff in common pleas court on affidavits filed by Prosecutor Guy Cline.

Kaesong Still Point Of Deadlock

UN Hints It Will Modify Demands

MUNSAN, Nov. 3—(Saturday)—Allied cease-fire negotiators Friday threw the door wide open to a compromise on the last major issue blocking agreement on a Korea buffer zone.

The last issue is Kaesong, Communist-held gateway on the classic invasion route towards Seoul, 40 miles away.

And last night the United Nations command gave its first hint that it would not necessarily hold out for Kaesong.

That hint came from an Allied briefing officer, who declared that although the Allied demand for Kaesong was "strong," it was not "adamant."

It was the first time the UN command ever had given an advance hint of a possible change in any bargaining position and led to speculation in informed quarters that the Allies may have a new "package deal" to offer the Communists shortly.

BUT THE SAME spokesman made it plain the Allies consider the latest Red proposal "takes everything and offers nothing."

This view also was expressed in a brief committee session on Friday's 15th subcommittee session at Panmunjom on a demilitarized zone.

The committee said: "Both subcommittees continued today to advance arguments supporting their views for a zone of demilitarization and demarcation."

"The Communist-proposed zone incorporates all concessions previously offered by the UN command but they make no corresponding adjustment at any point."

"The meeting will continue tomorrow at 11 a. m." (3 p. m. EST Friday).

The question of who will control Kaesong, the former site of the truce parley, remained the major stumbling block in the

Hawthornden Project Prodded By Governor

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2 — Governor Lausche has ordered the state public works department to speed up construction on a number of Hawthornden state hospital buildings.

The governor said he spent Wednesday morning at the hospital, touring wards and observing conditions.

Regarding conditions at Hawthornden, the governor said they were not "ideal" but "extraordinarily above the average" for other mental hospitals in the nation.

He said certain buildings at Hawthornden "have been unjustifiably delayed" in construction and that Public Works Director Samuel O. Linnell had been instructed to demand that the contractor speed up his work.

Lausche said he found Hawthornden unable to hire sufficient personnel due to defense demands in the area.

French Fear New Commie Thrust

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — Gen. Collins, Army chief of staff, declared today we will eventually get an armistice in Korea but told of French fears that the Communists will launch new aggression.

The general, just back from a month-long global inspection tour, told newsmen the French fear that a Korean armistice would enable the Chinese Reds to pour huge forces into Indo-China.

However, Collins emphasized his confidence that hostilities in Korea can be terminated under conditions satisfactory to the Western Allies.

Fact Board Due In Pier Strike

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—A fact-finding board will be set up today to investigate the 19-day-old tieup of the New York waterfront, but spokesmen for striking longshoremen rejected it in advance.

He said sessions probably will start next week and he appealed to the strikers to return to the piers.

Europe Air Wing To Get A-Bombs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — Air Force Secretary Finletter today said the U.S. is preparing to support Gen. Eisenhower's European army with planes that will deliver atomic explosives in quantity.

Stressing the importance of air support for the North Atlantic treaty forces, Finletter told a news conference:

"We are moving into a time of relative atomic plenty. These atomic weapons will have to be carried principally by conventional (piloted) aircraft."

R. A. Butler reportedly has suggested a number of proposals for reducing expenditures and narrowing the "dollar gap"—the excess of dollar expenditures over dollar income.

He arrived at London airport today and is scheduled to have lunch with Prime Minister Churchill.

Well, It Looks As If Summer Is About Gone

The U. S. Weather Bureau Friday summed up its weather forecast in two words:

"Hard freeze."

The forecaster warned motorists to put anti-freeze in their cars if they have not already done so.

"We are on the front edge of a huge V-shaped high pressure system which starts in the Rockies and extends to the Appalachian mountains in the east. It goes northward up into Canada," he said.

He added that there will be no winds to make the cold more biting.

He also said that Ohioans are not in a cold wave, pointing out that a cold wave comes with a sudden drop in temperatures and that Ohio has had but an intensification of cold.

Temperatures Friday were to vary from a high of 40 degrees in the northern edge of the state to 50 degrees on the southern edge.

Occasional snow also is expected Friday night with snow flurries in the north portion Saturday. Temperatures Friday night are expected to dip to the low 20s.

Pickaway County got its first snow of the 1951-52 winter season Wednesday night. It didn't amount to much, but it was snow.

Friday morning, the area was getting snow again—mixed about half-and-half with rain.

Suspicious Woman, 72, Provides Vital Tip Solving Murder Mystery

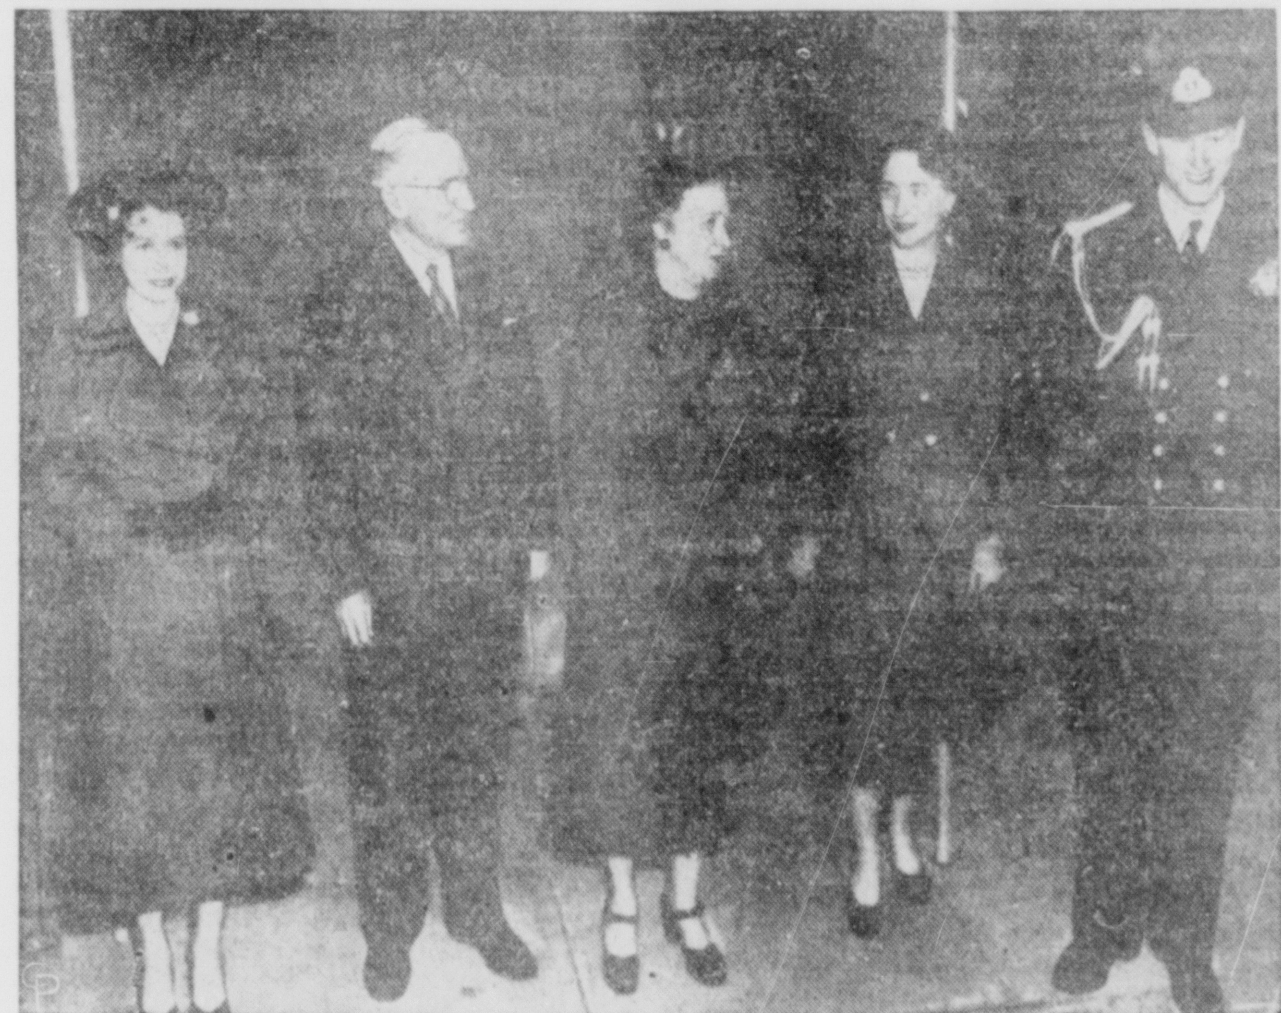

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2—A 72-year-old woman who became suspicious of a neighbor's sudden disappearance was credited today with supplying the tip that led to solution of a Los Angeles trunk murder.

A call to the sheriff's office by Mrs. Hattie Bell McFarland brought about the arrest of John Kelley, 44-year-old painter.

Within an hour Kelley sobbed out a confession that he killed his wife, Margaret Theresa, 39, during a drunken argument "over money and another woman" and then disposed of her body by jamming it, nude, into an old trunk.

The slaying occurred last Oct. 13 while the two Kelley boys, Richard, 7, and John Jr., 10, were at a movie, but was not discovered until last Sunday.

THE TRUNK, containing Mrs. Kelley's decomposed body, was found in a vacant lot in East Los Angeles.

The Allied spokesman—reporting on the discussions at the 15th session of the buffer zone subcommittee—pointed out that the UN command has offered to pull its troops back from the Kumsong and Kongsong bulges on the east-central and extreme eastern front in exchange for Kaesong.

In addition, the Allies have offered to evacuate islands above the 38th Parallel off both coasts of the Korean peninsula after an armistice is signed.

The TWO Allied and two Communist delegates argued for a total of three hours and a half in the circus tent at Pannumjoo, which replaced controversial Kaesong as a parley site when the conference resumed after a two-month suspension.

Progress was negligible. The Reds made a strong demand that the Allies accept their latest proposal for a cease-fire buffer zone, but avoided an actual ultimatum.

An Allied briefing officer said the Communists were so vehement that Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges, senior subcommittee delegate, asked them if they were delivering an ultimatum.

The briefing officer, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, added:

"They evaded a direct answer. They laid it on pretty thick during the morning session that this is their best proposal and urged vigorously that we accept it."

Nuckolls denied that the Communists had flatly demanded a yes-or-no answer.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2 — Sheriff's Sgt. Fred W. Selby reported today that a 16-year-old Clinton Township boy was fatally wounded by his 17-year-old brother late last night during an argument over making a bed in their home.

Selby said the victim was James Harding, a 12-gauge shotgun, he said, was fired at close range by his brother, Earl.

2 Roosters Cost Men Total Of $522.40 Thursday

Shooting pheasants out of season is proving to be costly.

Clarence Kirsckaddom, 43, and H. C. Jones, 46, both of Marathon, were fined a total of $522.40 Thursday as the result of having shot two rooster pheasants.

Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis said he was aiding Fayette County Protector Irvin Patrick and District Supervisor Frank Howard in Fayette County Thursday when the action happened.

"We were investigating a number of calls complaining of persons shooting pheasants from the highway," Francis said, "when we came upon the car in which Kirsckaddom and Jones were riding."

Francis said the men were given notice to stand quiet, but that they bolted in their auto. The chase ended in Clinton County after the men had tossed two rifles and two rooster pheasants along the road on the flight.

In the court of Washington C. H. Magistrate P. S. Ludwig, each man was fined $100 and costs for having taken a pheasant and each man was fined another $150 and costs for resisting arrest. The total was $522.40.

In addition, both men lost their rights to hunt in Ohio until September, 1952.

'Eager Beavers' Make $360 From Booth At Show

Pickaway County Children's home pocketed about $360 in profits from its booth at Court and Pinekney streets during the 1951 Circleville Pumpkin Show.

The booth, operated by the Eager Beaver Club of the Home, was removed from its Pumpkin Show site Friday. It was the first up and the last down, but it was always the first (generally the only) local booth to publically report its "take."

Winfield Koch, superintendent of the Home, said many persons fattened the youngsters' profit by donations of cash, while others donated pies, potato chips and other saleable items.

"But they made less this year than they did last year," Koch pointed out. "They made about $560 last year."

The money earned by the Eager Beavers Clubbers is used by the youngsters for their recreation and entertainment.

Rambling Heifer Finally Caught Here Friday

Police and residents of Circleville joined early Thursday in a "heifer hunt."

Policeman Elmer Merriman said he was on West Main street early Thursday when a man told him there was a cow loose on the railroad intersection at W. Main.

Merriman said the heifer turned south along the railroad tracks and was frightened by a freight train.

Returning to police headquarters, Merriman kept track of the wandering heifer by a series of telephone calls from residents in the southwest end of town.

The heifer, owned by Harry Riffe, former Pickaway County dog warden, had broken loose from a barn just west of the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks.

Carl Riffe, son of the former dog warden, rounded up the heifer at about noon Friday after having tracked her through yards on West Mount street.

Mother Nature Continues To Be All Fouled Up

Mother Nature has had a time of it in trying to keep her seasons straight in Circleville this Fall.

First came a report by Charles Garner of West High street that this city would have a long, Summerish Fall this year. Robins were building nests in his back yard.

Next—only last Monday—P. W. Glenn of 1010 South Court street produced samples of three-year-old strawberry plants which were in the process of blooming and even had some ripe berries on them.

But Orlando Poling of 360 Weldon avenue Friday unreeled a corker to top both other men.

Poling said he was raking leaves from the George Crites back yard this week when he uncovered a patch of Spring mushrooms.

Poling said the mushrooms definitely were not of the Fall "buff-toni" variety found in local cow pastures, but were the real McCoy.

He said they were the typical sponge mushroom found here in the Spring, with the dimpled head and smooth stalk.

All this, while most local folk were thinking of digging out the old snow shovel.

The human heart rests more than it beats.

Toledo Jury Studies Its Gambling Status

TOLEDO, Nov. 2 — The Lucas County grand jury began a special session today to hear testimony on gambling activities in the county.

State Liquor Enforcement Chief Anthony A. Rutkowski and three other department agents are expected to give details of operations of the Webster Inn, New Dixie Club and Victory Club, all closed this week.

The clubs were closed on order of Common Pleas Judge John McCabe under authority of a new state law which permits local authorities to close premises used for gambling as common nuisances. It was the first time the law was invoked.

With their closing, Rutkowski said, "all large gambling establishments in the state are shutdown."

He added that Lucas County was the only one in the state in which three large gambling places operated at the same time.

Rutkowski also revealed that an investigator from County Prosecutor Joel Rhinefort's office was given a bribe offer by telephone last night to "keep his nose out of this business."

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

There was never a time when our children had so much raw material for thinking, thanks to the movies, radio, television and picture pages. Consider all the ideas, suggestions, and oft-disconnected facts which may crowd upon a child's mind in a day or even a quarter of an hour.

But information and ideas, as on the screen, come so fast he hardly has time for reflection. His attention must keep flitting from one item and idea to another.

Now thinking requires selecting, organizing, classifying, associating, recalling images and ideas from the memory and putting all these items and their relationships through the imagination into ever-new settings. But the faster these raw materials appear and the more of them from which to select in order to think, the harder the thinking task and the less likely thinking will take place at all.

The great psychologist, William James, once described the mental experiences of the tiny infant as one of "buzzing, blooming confusion." Aren't the experiences of the average child of school age often like that of this baby?

WISELY, THE modern school is using many visual and auditory aids in the classroom to give concrete meaning to ideas and facts being taught. But these helps can't substitute for thinking. While they help to enrich meaning and to organize knowledge, they can disperse attention and hamper reflective thinking, unless the teacher skilfully directs the learner's attention around the many items presented, so he will constantly reorganize, associate, classify, judge, compare and arrive at conclusions with definite purposes.

Furthermore, the wise teacher induces the learner to pick out important ideas and facts and to try to hold them clearly in his memory if he is to think effectively.

The average child or adult hears and sees so much on the screen and air that relatively few facts stand out in clear relief in his mind. He gets such a smattering of information that he masters a relatively small portion of it.

Here are a few constructive suggestions:

1. Answer all the questions of the child from his early years and encourage his intellectual curiosities and explorations. (My bulletin, "Letting Little Children Learn," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

2. Let the child, however young, see you searching for answers, too hard for you. Be ever a humble, honest searcher after truth, for him and with him.

3. Stimulate the child's search for facts and reasons by asking him questions which he can answer out of his past experiences and memories. Ask him questions which challenge him to think. Choose questions which won't just test his mechanical memory but will tease him into using in new ways the vast resources he already has in his head in order to arrive at new ideas and information. One of the children's magazines has been using many pictures and questions for stimulating reasoning in children even during their preschool years. Practically any parent or teacher can do likewise very effectively.

A 'Real' War Rages In Korea, Official Finds

HONOLULU, Nov. 2—Assistant Defense Secretary Anna Rosenberg set out today to convince Americans a real war is raging in Korea and warned that new sacrifices in civilian production may be necessary.

Mrs. Rosenberg, returning from a visit to the front lines in Korea, told Honolulu newsmen everything possible must be done to aid the nation's soldiers, and added:

"If civilian production has to be set aside, it should be set aside."

Asked if she believed many Americans failed to recognize Korea as more than a scrimmage, the assistant defense chief said she believed that was true. But she added:

"I don't think folks at home are complacent. I think they just can't envision the conditions in Korea. It is the toughest terrain I've ever seen."

Mrs. Rosenberg termed "astounding" the front-line troops whom she visited without accompanying high-ranking "brass."

"They never discussed true talks," she said. "They were too busy fighting a war."

But she said that front-line morale was high throughout Korea, and wisecracks accompanied the grim business of killing.

average child who is now six, he probably would be far better off at home or in a kindergarten. Why not follow the advice of the school psychologist or principal? More children enter school too early than the number who enter too late.

HONOLULU, Nov. 2—Assistant Defense Secretary Anna Rosenberg set out today to convince Americans a real war is raging in Korea and warned that new sacrifices in civilian production may be necessary.

Mrs. Rosenberg, returning from a visit to the front lines in Korea, told Honolulu newsmen everything possible must be done to aid the nation's soldiers, and added:

"If civilian production has to be set aside, it should be set aside."

Asked if she believed many Americans failed to recognize Korea as more than scrimmage, the assistant defense chief said she believed that was true. But she added:

"I don't think folks at home are complacent. I think they just can't envision the conditions in Korea. It is the toughest terrain I've ever seen."

Mrs. Rosenberg termed "astounding" the front-line troops whom she visited without accompanying high-ranking "brass."

"They never discussed truce talks," she said. "They were too busy fighting a war."

But she said that front-line morale was high throughout Korea, and wisecracks accompanied the grim business of killing.

average child who is now six, he probably would be far better off at home or in a kindergarten. Why not follow the advice of the school psychologist or principal? More children enter school too early than the number who enter too late.

SLIGHTLY AROMATIC

IN THE rapid course fostered by the industrial revolution whereby homo sapiens is by way of being reduced to the status of a cocoon, there appeared on display in the store windows throughout the land a few years ago, an intricate mechanism exhibiting an ingenious interplay of enmeshing gearing.

Thereby no longer did the driver of an automobile shift his own gears. This contrivance did all that for him. And with and for the mechanism there appeared a term which was completely meaningless to most persons—hydromatic.

Having no more connection with multifariousness than it had with water, the terminology was not simplified when a competitor, coming forth with the identical device, called it hydromatic.

Since then these artful words have burgeoned plentifully. They include ultramatic, gyromatic, Mercuromatic and Fordomatic, not to mention dynaflo and powerglide.

Beyond the automobile field the refrain is also taken up. There is Oil-o-matic, an oil burner, and Mirromatic, which is—of all things—a pressure cooker. And so it goes.

Yet there is hope for the future of the human race and thereby hangs a tale. In covering the waterfront on the use of these fancy names, a reporter on an Oklahoma newspaper called up one dealer whose response, when asked for his fancy term, "gave us all the sensations which must have been Diogenes." Said he, "we call it what is is—automatic transmission."

"So out we went to see this honest broker and his wares," continues the reporter, "and there it was that we learned that our future, whatever it may be, is not to be cocooned. 'Why lady,' says he speaking to our missus who went along for the ride, 'if you want the swiftest, smoothest, finest ride in town, just step right down on that exhilarator.'"

NECESSARY CHORES

REPUBLICANS are planning a speaking tour into five southern states next month followed by December meetings of leaders of 22 million Americans of foreign extraction—Poles, Italians, Irish, etc.

American voters who maintain a sentimental attachment for former homelands abroad can comprise the balance of power in any election. Republicans haven't made much hay with these groups in recent years and realize they must get more of these voters on their side.

All this is aside from the more interesting business of selecting a presidential nominee next July. Organizing to get out a big vote is prosaic stuff. But it is highly necessary.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I have never seen Josephine Baker on or off the stage. She is apparently an actress born in the United States, but is now a French citizen, which is her privilege. I also see by the newspapers that she is a Negress, which seems to me to be neither here nor there.

A mild furor is being stirred over the lady's visit to the Stork Club, a restaurant and saloon which I have been to four or five times. The owner of this place is Sherman Billingsley, who is pleasant to know.

It seems that Miss Baker got into the Stork Club inner sanctum, which is called the Cub Room. Part of the Billingsley set-up is to make it difficult for his customers to get into the Cub Room. The snob appeal of the place is supposed to operate so that if you cannot get in, you will want to and will be a better customer for the privilege. Miss Baker got in the first time she tried, which must make her the envy of many who have never been able to get in at all. If any discrimination was shown, it was in favor of Miss Baker.

I am told that she ordered a filet mignon and got a sirloin steak. So they threw a picket line about the place. In a restaurant like that, you always have to wait long, that being part of the snob appeal. If a customer is in a hurry, he can get served faster at some hamburger heaven.

So, Miss Baker waited long for her steak and for her wine and got sore and made a noise. Nobody threw her out for making a noise, although that has happened to others who made noises, Billingsley telling them never to show their faces in his joint.

That did not happen to Miss Baker, although it would seem to me to be Billingsley's privilege to reject customers who disconcert other customers and spoil his business. The fact that Miss Baker got into the Cub Room of this restaurant proves that Billingsley did not keep her out because she was a negress. That he did not ask her to leave after she made a fuss shows that he was more polite than usual.

One would imagine that with all that is going on in the world, people would have more on their minds than whether this French actress was delayed in getting her steak and wine, but immediately a lot of self-interested great minds jumped in to this situation and fixed it all up with racial prejudice, picketed the place, pronounced a boycott, in which conniving politicians joined. If Billingsley served me pig's knuckles instead of Hungarian goulash, would it be race prejudice?

As I said, I do not go to these places often, preferring to eat at home with my wife and children when I get a chance. The conversation at our table is more interesting than the by-play in these night spots, particularly as I hate to see women scared to smile because they fear their rigid makeup will crack.

I once went to a place with my wife and three Chinese friends and we were rejected. So we went to the Stork Club where we were made welcome although somewhat crowded.

I did not picket the other place. I simply never went there again. That is my privilege.

The right to stay away is a noble human one which Eleanor Roosevelt should incorporate in the document which she is drawing up for the United Nations. Also, the right of a proprietor of a place, where people go to spend a pleasant evening, to keep out anyone who disturbs the kind of decorum his customers prefer ought to be inviolable.

Miss Doctor

SYNOPSIS

When nighty desire Dr. Nicholas Cowan asked Dr. Mollie Brooks, his lovely co-worker at Boone Hospital Group, to marry him, she turned him down flat. For among the good husbands she thought, she centered her interest on the new young red-haired Resident Surgeon, Dr. Peter Shepherd, who has much to learn. When Mollie was suddenly stricken with abdominal pains, Shepherd attended her at Boone. Influenced by the evil whisperings of Clara Wayne, his audacity, Peter unfortunately made certain tests on Mollie, and although these proved negative, they nevertheless gave rise to ugly gossip. Outraged by this indignity, Dr. Cowan decides to teach Shepherd a lesson in professional ethics, one he won't forget. At a staff meeting, he ridicules Shepherd with withering scorn.

CHAPTER TEN

"Looking back," said Peter Shepherd, finally, as he opened the subject he had come to discuss with Mollie, "I can't even remember—let alone believe—how I got into such a mess."

Mollie could have enlightened him, but she kept silent, her finger tracing the swirls in the watered silk.

"I came here to the Group, knowing I was just a country boy, and would have to watch my step, and then—almost the first thing I do—"

"It's all right," said Mollie. "I got well of what ailed me."

"That isn't what I'm talking about!"

"I know..." laughed Mollie, though somewhat grimly.

"You see," said Peter, leaning toward her, his eyes upon her face. "In a way, I should have known what talk can do, now it can spread out. I've lived all my life in a rather small town, and that's where one learns all about gossip."

"So I understand." Her manner and her voice reminded him of Dr. Cowan. Peter winced.

"The thing I didn't realize," he continued eagerly, "was the extent to which personalities could feature in a big city hospital."

"They shouldn't, of course," murmured Mollie.

"But they do! And of all the personalities at the Group, I had to pick on you. You're so popular that it's no wonder everyone is mad at me."

"Your popularity is only average, and I doubt if everyone—" "Well, Dr. Cowan and the Chief are mad, and that's enough!"

Mollie laughed. "Yes, I can see that it would be. But are you sure?" Her curiosity about that Staff meeting was intense. She had been able to get little out of Nicholas on the subject. Just a statement that he'd gone to the meeting and had got "things" straightened out. Maybe she could get this Peter to say more.

"Dr. Cowan feels toward me as he must to a worm he'd find under a dock. If you can imagine him noticing worms! As for Dr. McIntosh—when!"

Mollie nodded. "I understand he can be a little harsh."

"That among a lot of other things," said Peter, smiling.

Try, Stop Me

Herbert Asbury says the original "goldbrick" game was devised by a character named Waddell, in Springfield, Ill., about 1880. Waddell invaded New York City with a big slug of lead, triple-plated with gold, and a small nugget of solid gold embedded in the center. This he offered prospective suckers at one-quarter the actual price of gold. When a sucker expressed skepticism, Waddell would extricate the nugget and say casually, "Get it analyzed yourself." Of course the nugget assayed pure gold, and a sale promptly followed. Waddell's profits reached the $200,000 mark before police caught up with him—and the expression "gold brick" became part of the language.

A press dispatch from Texas proves that there, at least, men still are men. An oil driller's wife hailed him to court for assaulting her, but he explained everything to the judge: "My wife gets ornery every time the weather is bad. So when I saw it was going to rain I just hit her with a sledge hammer."

THE BRUNET LIGHTED A CIGARET and checked her lipstick with a hand mirror. "I must have coffee," she muttered. "Black, strong coffee. I won't live out the morning."

There was something reminiscent about it. It was like the mornings after you went through when you were 18 and just beginning to live. "How many drinks did I have last night?" was always the opening gambit. You were a delayed adolescent then, a 100 years ago. The girls still were in the stage.

"Reading matter?" the brunet asked. The blonde passed her up a copy of one of the fashion magazines. She skimmed through it swiftly, nervously, once in a while stopping to study the way some other model had struck a pose. Then she clapped her smooth white hand to her smooth white forehead.

"Ruthie!" she exclaimed. "Look—just look—at how they've trimmed down Kathy's waistline in this dress picture! Why, she's at least two inches bigger than that. Look—look close and you can still see where they've painted it out. You still can see the brush marks."

"Dreadful cow," Ruthie murmured. "When will we get back from this miserable trip?"

"Some time tomorrow night," the brunet said. "I hope it's before midnight. I've got a late date."

"Jack?" the saintly black-haired one said.

"A new one," the brunet said. "He runs a chain of hotels. Terribly wealthy, they say."

"See if you can hold on to this one," the blonde said.

"I love you, too," the brunet said coldly.

IT WENT LIKE THAT, all the way out to Long Island and the airport. Then they lost track of them; they took the plane before you. When you got to Bermuda, it was night and it was raining, naturally, and when next you saw your little friends, they were coming out into the big dining room of the Castle Harbour hotel and slinking along before the critical fashion editors in all sorts of bathing suits. Big spotlights were on them and a band was playing softly behind them. When they got out there, they smiled dazzling smiles, threw their heads back as they prouetted and laughed charming, silent little laughs. A matronly woman at the table behind you nudged her middle-aged husband. "Aren't those girls just lovely? So young, so unspoiled..." You shuddered and looked through the windows at the rainy night and sipped your coffee meditatively.

things. My main interest, of course, was that he didn't pitch me out on my ear.

"Oh, you had done nothing—"

"Lady, lady! I did plenty! As you should know!" Mollie had forgotten that she should be wary with this young man. "I only hope you're endowed with enough womanly mercy to forgive me."

"What have I to forgive? You've made me out to be a dangerous and glamorous woman. I could never have accomplished that sort of reputation alone!"

He chuckled, the dimple deep in his cheek. "I made you wicked," he corrected, "but it was Dr. Cowan who made you glamorous."

"Goodness!" said Mollie. "How in the world was that done?"

"I wish you could have been at the Staff meeting!"

"I do, too," said Mollie fervently. "I've been waiting for someone to tell me about it. Nicholas so seldom gets involved in anything of the kind..." She paused hopefully.

"He isn't rusty from lack of practice," Dr. Shepherd assured her. Then he embarked upon a detailed account of what had happened.

He lacked Nicholas' scalding humor, but he did all right. "I felt exactly as I did the time my righteously indignant mother took my breeches down and paddled me in front of Santa Claus!" declared Peter Shepherd. "And," he concluded ruefully, "both times I richly deserved what I got."

"I don't see how anyone could," Mollie laughed. "Not all that!"

"It's swell of you to say so," he said earnestly. "In fact, you just are swell. I was afraid you wouldn't even talk to me, or let me talk to you."

Mollie blushed, faintly. "Maybe we'd better forget the whole thing. There's no one really hurt—"

"Thanks to Dr. Cowan. I've been wondering, Dr. Brooks—you know him pretty well—"

"Ah, ah!" chimed Mollie, smiling. "But you do!"

"Of course I do. Nicholas has been a wonderful friend to me. What about it?"

"Well, his coming to that meeting the way he did showed that he had some interest in me—because of my father, you know—"

It had shown no such thing, and Mollie was tempted to say so.

"I wondered if I could count on his being ready to advise me when I need advice about all the things I should have been taught and wasn't."

It would have been most simple to say, "Why not ask him?" It was kinder to protect this young man from Nicholas. "I don't believe he would," Dr. Shepherd, Nicholas is a wonderful person, but for some reason he avoids personal complications and involvements. He—well, he stays close in his ivory tower and is

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Frank McKinney has been a Pittsburgh Pirate, a Cleveland Indian, a Louisville Colonel and an Indianapolis banker. Now the Democrats hope they have found a fellow who also can be a Washington Caesar's wife.

The old story was that Caesar's wife must be above reproach; there were no special specifications for Caesar.

But since Washington has been in a state of reproach for some time this fresh, new face is welcome on the scene.

The chief job of a national party chairman is to keep the money rolling in and as this fellow has been associated with Bing Crosby he ought to know how to do that.

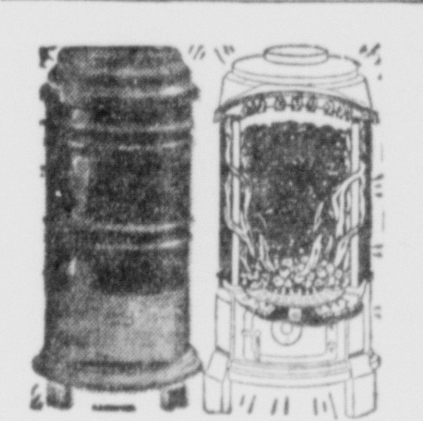

The best the Republicans can do now is line up a chairman who has been associated with Bob Hope who also has the golden touch.

Anyway the nice thing about this is the probable immediate restoration of health of Bill Boyle who was feeling poorly there when he resigned.

That Washington air has great restorative qualities as well as the power to destroy.

HOW TO DETECT TERMITES

Termites, sometimes mistakenly called "white ants," are tiny, wood-eating insects, living in well-organized colonies. It is conservatively estimated that these insects destroy over three hundred million dollars worth of property each year. Termites are a hidden public enemy. Day and night they work, silently and unseen, eating deeper and deeper into sound timber, until finally nothing remains but a thin, empty shell. No unprotected wood is safe from the attack of the termite. One queen at full maturity can produce from 50 to 75 thousand eggs per day.

Only rarely is the presence of termites detected before considerable damage has been done, and frequently not until the timber collapses. Termites may now be destroying your building, unseen and unsuspected.

There are two ways to find out whether your home is being attacked by termites. First, you may see winged reproductive termites (often called "flying ants") around your home in the Spring or Fall. This is a positive indication of a termite colony nearby, perhaps under your own house. Second the most certain method is to let a Newark Termite Control trained inspector examine your property. There is no charge or obligation. On request, an inspector will check your property for termites and termite damage and give you a reliable report on its condition.

CATTLE HARBOUR, Bermuda—This was the day that began at 9 o'clock at the Airlines Terminal in 42nd street, with more than a hundred assorted writers, fashion experts and freeloaders boarding coaches for Idlewild Airport and a quick trip to Bermuda. Some swimsuit people, outlandishly lavish, were ferrying them down to this damp island paradise just to see their new bathing suits. Anything for a laugh.

You climbed into your seat in the coach and as the fates would have it, you found yourself in a nest of models—strange creatures of a halfworld. There was no way out. You slumped down in your seat and closed your eyes, so at least you wouldn't have to make small talk.

"Darling Ruthie," the one next to you said to one of the ones in back of you. Her voice was flat and tired.

"Hello, hon," the one in back said. Her voice was rough and husky, as most of them are. Like Lauren Bacall, most models must have gone out and screamed into a canyon for hours. Lauren was lucky; her voice came out sexy. The others are caricatures.

"I didn't see you at Morocco last night," a blonde with close-set eyes and high cheekbones said to the brunet next to you.

"I closed up Twenty-One," the brunet said. She shuddered a little.

"Did I ever? I never drank so much in all my life."

The black-haired girl with the saintly face, sitting next to the blonde, tried with forefinger and thumb to open her eyes. She faked trying it, anyway. "I got two hours sleep," she announced with tired pride. She looked like a Madonna. "How long is this darned trip going to take, anyway?"

Circleville Attorney Discusses 'Wills' In Talk To Junior Women

Newcomers To Be Greeted

Tom A. Renick, Circleville attorney, was the guest speaker for November meeting of the Circleville Junior Women's Club, held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Harry Diehl.

Renick used as his subject, "Wills". He explained to the group that wills are easily made, needing only to be written and witnessed by two persons not beneficiaries. He stressed that the need for a will in a family with young children and a small estate is much greater than large estates where there are grown children capable of supporting themselves.

He illustrated this point by saying that "if a father of two children should die leaving a $20,000 estate and no will, the widow would receive only one third of this amount while two thirds would be held for the children, thus leaving the mother very little to keep her family going."

The attorney also brought out such legal points in Ohio law which prevents adoption of an adult but permits filing a request with the probate court making an adult the same as a blood relative for the purpose of inheriting property; that the mother of an illegitimate child may inherit from her child or her child from her when there is no will but the father may not; that formerly when a man and woman died at the same time, it was presumed that the woman, being of the weaker sex, died first, but now, with insurance statistics to disprove the theory, when it is not known which death occurred first, it is decreed that their deaths happened simultaneously and the property of neither passes to the estate of the other.

Jeanne Martinec, Edgar Morehead Are Married

The marriage of Miss Jeanne Martinec, speech therapist with Circleville schools, and Edgar A. Morehead took place in First Universalist church in Columbus at 5:30 p. m., Oct. 27. The rites were read by the Rev. Dr. Roger Bosworth.

Attending the couple were Miss Mary Scott of Dayton and Richard M. Hanhart, a Cleveland attorney.

The former Miss Martinec attended University of Chicago and graduated from Flora Stone Mather College for Women in Cleveland where she was a member of Gamma Delta Tau.

The bridegroom graduated from Dennison college where he was a member of Sigma Chi and from Western Reserve university school of law. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity, and is now a junior member of Deselm and Moore, a law firm in Cambridge. He served in World War II with the Air Force.

A wedding dinner was held in the Crystal Room of Fort Hayes hotel in Columbus, following the ceremony.

Renick told the club group, "A widow may hold not less than $500 and not more than $2500 absolutely free of administration. A person who willfully fails to produce a will for a period of three years loses the right to inherit from the will and that a husband or wife may choose between accepting the terms of the will or taking the amount which would be allowed them if there was no will."

Following his talk spent some time answering the many questions raised by his listeners on the subject.

With the president, Mrs. Ray Friend, presiding during the business session, the club members heard a report from Mrs. Diehl, committee chairman, on the reception which is being planned for Circleville "newcomers" at the Presbyterian church, Nov. 15. In addition to the invitations which are being mailed to them club members will make an effort to telephone or make personal calls on newcomers in their neighborhood. Mrs. Diehl announced that 75 women who have come to Circleville this year were being invited to the reception.

The club also voted to buy Christmas gifts for two Navajo children, which the local group is helping to sponsor.

In December club members will entertain their husbands at a dinner meeting.

Circleville Attorney Discusses 'Wills' In Talk To Junior Women

Newcomers To Be Greeted

Tom A. Renick, Circleville attorney, was the guest speaker for November meeting of the Circleville Junior Women's Club, held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Harry Diehl.

Renick used as his subject, "Wills." He explained to the group that wills are easily made, needing only to be written and witnessed by two persons not beneficiaries. He stressed that the need for a will in a family with young children and a small estate is much greater than large estates where there are grown children capable of supporting themselves.

He illustrated this point by saying that "If a father of two children should die leaving a $20,000 estate and no will, the widow would receive only one third of this amount while two thirds would be held for the children, thus leaving the mother very little to keep her family going."

The attorney also brought out such legal points in Ohio law which prevent adoption of an adult but permits filing a request with the probate court making an adult the same as a blood relative for the purpose of inheriting property; that the mother of an illegitimate child may inherit from her child or her child from her when there is no will but the father may not; that formerly when a man and woman died at the same time, it was presumed that the woman, being of the weaker sex, died first, but now, with insurance statistics to disprove the theory, when it is not known which death occurred first, it is decreed that their deaths happened simultaneously and the property of neither passes to the estate of the other.

Jeanne Martinec, Edgar Morehead Are Married

The marriage of Miss Jeanne Martinec, speech therapist with Circleville schools, and Edgar A. Morehead took place in First Universalist church in Columbus at 5:30 p. m. Oct. 27. The rites were read by the Rev. Dr. Roger Bosworth.

Attending the couple were Miss Mary Scott of Dayton and Richard M. Hanhart, a Cleveland attorney.

The former Miss Martinec attended University of Chicago and graduated from Flora Stone Mather College for Women in Cleveland where she was a member of Gamma Delta Tau.

The bridegroom graduated from Dennison college where he was a member of Sigma Chi and from Western Reserve university school of law. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity, and is now a junior member of Deselm and Moore, a law firm in Cambridge. He served in World War II with the Air Force.

A wedding dinner was held in the Crystal Room of Fort Hayes hotel in Columbus, following the ceremony.

Renick told the club group, "A widow may hold not less than $500 and not more than $2500 absolutely free of administration. A person who willfully fails to produce a will for a period of three years loses the right to inherit from the will and that a husband or wife may choose between accepting the terms of the will or taking the amount which would be allowed them if there was no will."

Following his talk spent some time answering the many questions raised by his listeners on the subject.

With the president, Mrs. Ray Friend, presiding during the business session, the club members heard a report from Mrs. Diehl, committee chairman, on the reception which is being planned for Circleville "newcomers" at the Presbyterian church, Nov. 15. In addition to the invitations which are being mailed to them club members will make an effort to telephone or make personal calls on newcomers in their neighborhood. Mrs. Diehl announced that 75 women who have come to Circleville this year were being invited to the reception.

The club also voted to buy Christmas gifts for two Navajo children, which the local group is helping to sponsor.

In December club members will entertain their husbands at a dinner meeting.

God Reveals Himself to Moses

HE IS CHOSEN TO DELIVER THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL FROM BONDAGE

Scripture—Exodus 3-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

OUR LESSON today concerns a great moment in history. For the Israelites, suffering in bondage in Egypt, a great leader was chosen to liberate them, to lead them to land which Jehovah said was to be theirs, where they might live as a unified nation in freedom.

For 40 years Moses had been living in Midian in the household of his father-in-law, Jethro or Reuel, acting as shepherd to Jethro's flock. Forty years of quiet and peace—but it proved to be a time of training for Moses for the great work he was to do for Jehovah and his people.

All world leaders in history have been prepared for their missions in one way or another. George Washington, learned military tactics when he was fighting for Britain in the French and Indian wars. He knew his territory; he was no "softie," for he had endured hardships. He knew how to command men and win their respect. He was honest and trustworthy.

Events in their early lives conditioned recent and present world leaders to their positions of responsibility, sometimes to tragedy and the world's hurt, sometimes to become, even as Moses, their people's deliverers.

Moses led his father-in-law's sheep one day into a grazing country near to the "mountain of God, unto Horeb." As he looked at a bush by the wayside, it suddenly burst into flames, but Moses saw that while it burned it was not consumed.

As he stopped to look at such an unusual sight, a Voice spoke to him out of the bush, "Moses, Moses," and Moses answered, "Here am I."

The Voice said, "Draw not nigh hither: put thy shoes off from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. Moreover He said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look upon God."

Then God told Moses that He had seen the affliction of the Israelites in Egypt, had heard their cry, and had come to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and "to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites."

Then God revealed to Moses that He had chosen him to free His people and to bring them to this land of freedom and plenty.

How would one of us feel if we had been living happily and quietly for 40 years in a place where we were surrounded by congenial and loving people, then suddenly we were ordered to leave all this happiness and security and to undertake an assignment that was extremely difficult and, indeed, almost impossible?

Moses reacted much as we would have done. He made excuses. He said the Israelites would not believe that God has sent him to lead them to freedom. To that God told him to throw down the staff which he held. When he obeyed, the staff turned into a serpent. "Take it by the tail," ordered Jehovah, and when he did so the serpent became again a rod.

"Put now thine hand into thy bosom," said God. Moses did so, and when he took it out it was pure white with leprosy. "Put thy hand into thy bosom again," he was next told; and when he took it out it had turned a natural shade again.

These miracles and another, that of having river water turn to blood when poured upon the land, were to be used to convince the Israelites that Jehovah was indeed the power behind Moses. He was to use these wonders if the people disbelieved him.

Then Moses gave the Lord the excuse that he was no "spell-binder," but "slow of speech, and of a slow tongue."

"I will be with thy mouth," countered the Lord, "and teach thee what thou shalt say." And the Lord's anger was kindled against Moses because of his excuses. He reminded him that he had a brother, Aaron, who could speak well. Moses should go to Egypt and meet his brother, who would do the talking for him.

So Moses took his wife, Zipporah, and his children and went to Egypt, taking the rod of the Lord with him. There the two brothers met and embraced warmly. Then Moses told Aaron all that the Lord had said, and the two brothers called the elders of Israel to assemble before them.

"And Aaron spake all the words which the Lord had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people."

"And the people believed; and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that He had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped."

Suppose Moses had refused his God's command; had returned to his home in Midian and gone on living his peaceful and secure life. No one outside his own little group would have known of him.

Because he did his duty, accepted Jehovah's command and succeeded in liberating his people, the whole world knows him for a hero, a wise leader, and even now, thousands of years later, books are still being written about him.

Ohio Chamber Asks Cost Cut

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2—The Ohio Chamber of Commerce said today new taxes are unavoidable unless the state government limits operating expenses in 1952 and early 1953.

In a 40-page study of the 1952-53 budget authorizing more than $700 million in state expenditures for the next two years, the chamber recommended strict curtailment of the state's "constantly expanding" subsidies to local governments and schools.

The body urged instead that these groups be encouraged to finance themselves.

God Reveals Himself to Moses

HE IS CHOSEN TO DELIVER THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL FROM BONDAGE

Scripture—Exodus 3-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

OUR LESSON today concerns a great moment in history. For the Israelites, suffering in bondage in Egypt, a great leader was chosen to liberate them, to lead them to land which Jehovah said was to be theirs, where they might live as a unified nation in freedom.

For 40 years Moses had been living in Midian in the household of his father-in-law, Jethro or Reuel, acting as shepherd to Jethro's flock. Forty years of quiet and peace—but it proved to be a time of training for Moses for the great work he was to do for Jehovah and his people.

All world leaders in history have been prepared for their missions in one way or another. George Washington, learned military tactics when he was fighting for Britain in the French and Indian wars. He knew his territory; he was a "softer," for he had endured hardships. He knew how to command men and win their respect. He was honest and trustworthy.

Events in their early lives conditioned recent and present world leaders to their positions of responsibility, sometimes to tragedy and the world's hurt, sometimes to become, even as Moses, their people's deliverers.

Moses led his father-in-law's sheep one day into a grazing country near to the "mountain of God, unto Horeb." As he looked at a bush by the wayside, it suddenly burst into flames, but Moses saw that while it burned it was not consumed.

As he stopped to look at such an unusual sight, a Voice spoke to him out of the bush, "Moses, Moses," and Moses answered, "Here am I."

The Voice said, "Draw not nigh hither, put thy shoes off from thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. Moreover He said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look upon God."

Then God told Moses that He had seen the affliction of the Israelites in Egypt, had heard their cry, and had come to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and "to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey, unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites."

Then God revealed to Moses that He had chosen him to free His people and to bring them to this land of freedom and plenty.

How would one of us feel if we had been living happily and quietly for 40 years in a place where we were surrounded by congenial and loving people, then suddenly we were ordered to leave all this happiness and security and to undertake an assignment that was extremely difficult and, indeed almost impossible?

Moses reacted much as we would have done. He made excuses. He said the Israelites would not believe that God has sent him to lead them to freedom. To that God told him to throw down the staff which he held. When he obeyed, the staff turned into a serpent. "Take it by the tail," ordered Jehovah, and when he did so the serpent became again a rod.

"Put now thine hand into thy bosom," said God. Moses did so, and when he took it out it was pure white with leprosy. "Put thy hand into thy bosom again," he was next told; and when he took it out it had turned a natural shade again.

These miracles and another, that of having river water turn to blood when poured upon the land, were to be used to convince the Israelite leaders that Jehovah was indeed the power behind Moses. He was to use these wonders if the people disbelieved him.

Then Moses gave the Lord the excuse that he was no "spell-binder," but "slow of speech, and of a slow tongue."

"I will be with thy mouth," countered the Lord, "and teach thee what thou shalt say," and the Lord's anger was kindled against Moses because of his excuses. He reminded him that he had a brother, Aaron, who could speak well. Moses should go to Egypt and meet his brother, who would do the talking for him.

So Moses took his wife, Zipporah, and his children and went to Egypt, taking the rod of the Lord with him. There the two brothers met and embraced warmly. Then Moses told Aaron all that the Lord had said, and the two brothers called the elders of Israel to assemble before them.

"And Aaron spake all the words which the Lord had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people.

"And the people believed; and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that He had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped."

Suppose Moses had refused his God's command; had returned to his home in Midian and gone on living his peaceful and secure life. No one outside his own little group would have known of him. Because he did his duty, accepted Jehovah's command and succeeded in liberating his people, the whole world knows him for a hero, a wise leader, and even now, thousands of years later, books are still being written about him.

U. S. Must Build Civilian Defense

By MILLARD CALDWELL
U. S. Civil Defense Director

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This Is Civil Defense" prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration.)

Civil defense is set up by Federal and State law. But no law will work unless you back it up with action. That's why, in the end, the responsibility for civil defense is yours.

If bombs from enemy planes ever fall on your city or community, they will not fall on an organization, or a system of government. They will fall on you and your family and your friends.

A soldier is trained to take care of himself and to keep on fighting. As a defender of your home front, you must learn to protect yourself and keep on working.

Despite every precaution, a soldier might be killed. So might you. But the more you know, and the better trained you are, the better your chances for survival.

To help you protect yourself, and to make the best use of your own special ability and skill in an emergency, is the whole idea of civil defense. If you give time and thought to that, then you will be able to save yourself and others if trouble comes.

It is not up to the federal government to run civil defense. The federal Civil Defense Administration does the basic planning, gives technical information to the States, pays part of the cost of equipment and shelters, and provides some kinds of emergency supplies. The operation of civil defense begins at your State line.

It is the job of the States and Territories and their counties and cities to organize civil defense among their own people.

THEY MUST build the machine and make it run. The person in charge in your state is the state Civil Defense director. In Pickaway County, it is Ben Gordon of Circleville. He and his staff organize and direct civil defense. To do this they must find and train thousands of volunteer workers. Without your help, their efforts would be useless.

Civil defense is definitely not the responsibility of the Armed Forces. Their job is to fight by carrying the attack to the enemy. Their experts have worked with the federal Civil Defense Administration to determine which areas are most likely to be attacked, what kinds of attacks to expect, and what to do about them.

The Armed Forces have some definite civil defense jobs, such as making decisions on blackouts, camouflaging and radio silence.

The Air Force operates the radar screen and the ground observer system to know when its own fighter planes are needed to meet incoming bombers, and to warn civil

Meat Assured For 'GI Joe'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — The government has announced that federally inspected slaughterers will be ordered to set aside part of their beef supplies for the armed forces beginning next month.

The Office of Price Stabilization said the action should not result in any shortage of beef for civilians. Rather, OPS said, allocation for the armed forces may improve distribution of civilian supplies.

Briefly, the new program puts armed forces beef on a priority basis. Packers will be required to set aside all beef of the three top grades slaughtered in excess of a specified percentage of what they killed last year.

defense officials of their approach. Once the warning has been given, the Air Force job for civil defense ends, and civil defense goes into operation. That is where you come in. That is where your training in civil defense will save lives—perhaps your life and the lives of your family.

(The next article will discuss what does civil defense do before an attack.)

Jury Expected To Find Verdict In Police Case

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2 — A jury is expected to reach a verdict today in the case of three Cleveland policemen accused of robbery while on duty.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Donald F. Lybarger drew fire from the prosecutors yesterday when he dismissed the jury before they began to deliberate the case.

"They'll go home and sleep the final arguments off," said county prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan.

"I didn't want them to think they had to reach a hasty verdict. This is an important case. They might have felt they had to reach a verdict before dinner time," said Judge Lybarger in explaining his action.

George Lezius, Richard Moore and Edward Toth are on trial, accused of stealing $260 worth of tools from a radio and key shop July 16. The three were suspended from the police department.

Toledo Milk Prices Hiked

TOLEDO, Nov. 2 — Retail milk prices went up one cent a quart today in Northwestern Ohio cities.

The prices were raised under the government's approved supply-demand price formula governing the Toledo milkshed area. It is the first increase since Jan. 1.

The new prices are 22 cents a quart for grade A regular milk; 23 cents a quart for homogenized milk; 23½ cents a half pint for table cream and 39½ cent a half pint for whipping cream.

Ohio Methodists Book Conference

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2—Ten leaders in the fields of law, education, politics and religion will feature the first Ohio area Methodist conference on Christianity and secularism Nov. 9-10 in Columbus.

More than 300 ministers and laymen from all parts of Ohio are expected to attend the conference.

U. S. Must Build Civilian Defense

By MILLARD CALDWELL
U. S. Civil Defense Director

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This Is Civil Defense" prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration.)

Civil defense is set up by Federal and State law. But no law will work unless you back it up with action. That's why, in the end, the responsibility for civil defense is yours. If bombs from enemy planes ever fall on your city or community, they will not fall on an organization, or a system of government. They will fall on you and your family and your friends.

A soldier is trained to take care of himself and to keep on fighting. As a defender of your home front, you must learn to protect yourself and keep on working.

Despite every precaution, a soldier might be killed. So might you. But the more you know, and the better trained you are, the better your chances for survival. To help you protect yourself, and to make the best use of your own special ability and skill in an emergency, is the whole idea of civil defense. If you give time and thought to that, then you will be able to save yourself and others if trouble comes.

It is not up to the federal government to run civil defense. The federal Civil Defense Administration does the basic planning, gives technical information to the States, pays part of the cost of equipment and shelters, and provides some kinds of emergency supplies. The operation of civil defense begins at your State line.

It is the job of the States and Territories and their counties and cities to organize civil defense among their own people.

THEY MUST BUILD the machine and make it run. The person in charge in your state is the state Civil Defense director. In Pickaway County, it is Ben Gordon of Circleville. He and his staff organize and direct civil defense. To do this they must find and train thousands of volunteer workers. Without your help, their efforts would be useless.

Civil defense is definitely not the responsibility of the Armed Forces. Their job is to fight by carrying the attack to the enemy. Their experts have worked with the federal Civil Defense Administration to determine which areas are most likely to be attacked, what kinds of attacks to expect, and what to do about them.

The Armed Forces have some definite civil defense jobs, such as making decisions on blackouts, camouflages and radio silence.

The Air Force operates the radar screen and the ground observer system to know when its own fighter planes are needed to meet incoming bombers, and to warn civil

Meat Assured For 'GI Joe'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 — The government has announced that federally inspected slaughterers will be ordered to set aside part of their beef supplies for the armed forces beginning next month.

The Office of Price Stabilization said the action should not result in any shortage of beef for civilians. Rather, OPS said, allocation for the armed forces may improve distribution of civilian supplies.

Briefly, the new program puts armed forces beef on a priority basis. Packers will be required to set aside all beef of the three top grades slaughtered in excess of a specified percentage of what they killed last year.

defense officials of their approach. Once the warning has been given, the Air Force job for civil defense ends, and civil defense goes into operation. That is where you come in. That is where your training in civil defense will save lives—perhaps your life and the lives of your family.

(The next article will discuss what does civil defense do before an attack.)

Jury Expected To Find Verdict In Police Case

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2 — A jury is expected to reach a verdict today in the case of three Cleveland policemen accused of robbery while on duty.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Donald F. Lybarger drew fire from the prosecutors yesterday when he dismissed the jury before they began to deliberate the case.

"They'll go home and sleep the final arguments off," said county prosecutor Frank T. Cullinan.

"I didn't want them to think they had to reach a hasty verdict." This is an important case. They might have felt they had to reach a verdict before dinner time," said Judge Lybarger in explaining his action.

George Lezius, Richard Moore and Edward Toth are on trial, accused of stealing $260 worth of tools from a radio and key shop July 16. The three were suspended from the police department.

Toledo Milk Prices Hiked

TOLEDO, Nov. 2 — Retail milk prices went up one cent a quart today in Northwestern Ohio cities.

The prices were raised under the government's approved supply-demand price formula governing the Toledo milkshed area. It is the first increase since Jan. 1.

The new prices are 22 cents a quart for grade A regular milk; 23 cents a quart for homogenized milk; 23½ cents a half pint for table cream and 39½ cent a half pint for whipping cream.

Ohio Methodists Book Conference

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2—Ten leaders in the fields of law, education, politics and religion will feature the first Ohio area Methodist conference on Christianity and secularism Nov. 9-10 in Columbus.

More than 300 ministers and laymen from all parts of Ohio are expected to attend the conference.

Programs Set Up For Next Three Kiwanis Meetings

William Ammer, local attorney, has been named new program chairman for Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Friday, he announced the programs for the next three weeks.

Monday, the club will hear Paul Frank, Columbus radio commentator who recently completed a tour of Europe.

On Nov. 12, Byron Sandles, former manager of the Ohio State Fair, will speak on "Ten to One You're a Sucker." This will be a "ladies' night" program.

On Nov. 19, Kiwanians will hold their annual high school football banquet. Members of the Circleville squad and their coaches will be honored guests. Speaker will be Marty Krow, grid scout and baseball coach at Ohio State university.

Wildcats Due In Columbus For Battle With OSU

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2—There are big football doings today in Columbus as Northwestern's once-beaten football team arrives by air for tomorrow's game and 5,000 cheering students conduct a pep rally to the Ohio State gridder.

The Wildcats, minus two defensive players who were injured in last Saturday's 41-0 rout by Wisconsin, are to hold a light practice session in Ohio Stadium this afternoon.

The Bucks are to take to the field for a warmup session and then join tonight's huge rally before heading for a movie at the state censor board's office.

Tomorrow morning, players will meet their dads who at game time will be honored with seats along the sidelines behind their sons. At halftime, the players' fathers along with this year's university Dad of Eds, William F. Kidnocker from Chillicothe, will be feted.

Ticket Director Ed Weaver has indicated a crowd of some 80,000 is expected to be on hand to watch the Bucks gun for their second Western Conference victory in four tries. Northwestern sports a win over Minnesota and a loss to the Badgers in Big Ten competition.

A sleeping person may change position from 20 to 65 times a night.

CHS'ers Ready For Westerville

Brudzinski Picks Same Starters

Circleville high school's starting Tiger football lineup will remain unchanged Friday night when the Red and Black gridgers travel to Westerville for their last "away" game of the season.

Tiger Coach Steve Brudzinski Friday said a total of 25 Tiger gridgers will make the chilly Friday night jaunt and that the starters will remain the same as last week.

Circleville ended its pre-game workouts Thursday night with an under-the-lights session at the high school, following up a rugged week of scrimmages and drills.

For the first time in several weeks, the CHS'ers were given a chance this week for some heavy body contact work prior to a Friday game. It was made possible by the elevation of new material, promoted from the ranks of the reserve team.

BUT LOST to the squad for the remainder of the 1951 campaign is Gary Thomas, alternate center for the Tigers, who is ineligible.

Thomas was a regular starter a few weeks ago, later was placed on an alternate basis with Walt Heine, who will start again at Westerville.

Both Circleville and Westerville will be seeking to add to their already impressive records in Friday's tilt, Circleville seeking its sixth win in eight starts which have included one loss and one tie; and the host Westerville

Wildcats seeking to earn its seventh win in eight starts which have included one loss.

And, as in the match against St. Charles earlier, Circleville and Westerville will be almost equally matched in the contest.

Circleville has a weight advantage; Westerville has speed with its lightness; and both teams have allowed opposing squads only about 40 points in seven games to date.

WESTERVILLE has the scoring advantage, in theory, over the Tigers, having tallied a total of 192 points to date while the locals have racked up 120.

The weatherman also has taken a hand in the contest, predicting possible snow flurries and the temperature to range in the middle 20's.

A full program of halftime activities is promised for Tiger fans who brave the weathercaster's prediction to see the game.

Circleville's high school marching band will perform during the encounter, its first road trip of the current football season. The trip is sponsored by the Circleville Boosters Club. Westerville's band also will be on hand.

Probable starting lineups for both teams going into Friday's match, slated with kickoff time at 8 p. m., are as follow:

Circleville

Ends—Charles Johnson and Jim Cook.
Tackles—Bill Gillis and Mike Brown.
Guards—John Cockrell and Clyde Cook.
Center—Walt Heine.
Quarterback—Jerry Rooney.
Halfbacks—Jerry Pritchard and Paul Hill.
Fullback—Dave Coffland.

Westerville

Ends—Bob Townsend and Dan Morris.
Tackles—Tom Beum and Gene Kuhn.
Guards—Dick Gallogly and Charles Hudson.
Center—Paul Sanford.
Quarterback—Dewey Miller.
Halfbacks—Dan Burwell and Bob Lear.
Fullback—Wayne Stratton.

Game Protector Can Be Called Now By Radio

Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis now can be contacted by radio.

The game man said he has a 1730 AM band set installed in his auto, tuned to the same frequency of the state highway patrol.

"If anyone wants to get in touch with me while I am out in the county he can do so by calling the sheriff's office or the police department," Francis said.

Calls to the sheriff's or police departments will be relayed to the state highway patrol, which in turn will contact Francis.

Old Canal Gets 1,000 Bluegills

Local fishermen will have a new goal to shoot at next year in the Old Canal, west of Circleville.

The popular fishing hole was stocked with a shipment of bluegills Thursday afternoon from the Kin-kaid fish farm in southern Ohio.

Game Protector Clarence Francis said a total of 1,000 bluegills were added to the Canal and that they are expected to be full adult size by next summer.

Most United States Army bugle calls were adopted from the French, some from the British.

Joe Bell Picked To Head Local Ref Group

Joe Bell of North Court street Thursday was named president of the Pickaway County Basketball Officials' Association.

Bell was named to take over the top post to replace John Heiskell, who has moved to Pomeroy. Jack McGuire is secretary-treasurer for the organization.

A large part of Thursday's ref meeting was spent in studying three new rule changes for this year's court season.

One of the new rulings to be in effect this season deals with time-outs between quarters. Bell said only one minute will separate the first and second quarters and the third and fourth quarters this year. Last year, the timeout was two minutes.

ALSO, A NEW ruling has been made to clarify an out-of-bounds situation.

Bell said that if a player, handling the ball, touches an out-of-bounds play with the ball this season he will retain possession of the ball.

He explained that if a player is crowded, for instance, along a boundary line he may touch any opposing player who is out of bounds and still keep the ball.

A third ruling deals with line-ups at the free-throw lanes.

Bell said a player must move up to take his place at the side-lanes of a free-throw line if the referee requests it. A technical foul may be called if the player refuses. Pickaway County's referee group also is seeking new members this season. Bell said a ref's exam will be given in December, and details may be obtained by writing to H. W. Emswiler, head of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, Columbus.

3 Significant Games Highlight Ohio's College Football Program

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2—Three significant games tomorrow afternoon highlight this weekend's Ohio collegiate football slate.

First will be the clash of the two unbeaten leaders in the Ohio Conference—Ohio Wesleyan and Mt. Union at Alliance.

The second will be Cincinnati's eighth bid for an undefeated season at Athens, Texas, against a strong Hardin-Simmons squad.

The third will find unbeaten but once-tied Heidelberg hosting its toughest foe of the season, Morris Harvey.

Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops are favored to take over undisputed first place in the conference in its meeting with Mt. Union's Purple Raiders.

The Bishops have three conference wins and a season record of five victories against one loss, while the Raiders sport one league win and a season record of two wins and three defeats.

CINCINNATI'S Bearcats expect trouble from the Texans in what promises to be a sky battle. 'Cat coach Sid Gillman, whose team is the only undefeated and untied one in the state, warned that the Texans are in extremely fine shape.

Heidelberg's Student Princes, leading the Ohio Conference in team offense and second in defense, figure Morris-Harvey as their worst hurdle in their bid for an undefeated season.

John Carroll will host Dayton's once-beaten Flyers Sunday. This will be a game in which season records will have little bearing on pre-game odds.

Two other league games are slated for Saturday—a Mid-American clash between Ohio U. and Toledo in the former's only night game of the season and an Ohio Conference battle between Wittenberg and Denison.

Other Saturday games include: Wooster at Allegheny (Pa.), University of Buffalo at Miami, Case at Baldwin Wallace, Hamilton at Kenyon, Western Reserve at West Virginia, Kent State at Bowling Green and Oberlin at University of Rochester.

Heidelberg Back Leads TD Race In Conference

DELAWARE, Nov. 2—Paul Yackey of Heidelberg's undefeated Student Princes today still leads the Ohio Conference's individual touchdown race.

Yackey added four touchdowns in his team's rout of Indiana State last week to boost his total to 16 TD's for 96 points.

Conference statistics show he leads his closest competitor, Ralph Sharrer of Muskingum, by 49 points.

Four backs are tied in third place with 36 points. They are Pat Mancuso of Mt. Union, Don Pinney of Muskingum, Bob Vogt of Denison and Bob Burnham of Oberlin.

Heidelberg tightened its hold on team offense leadership, boosting its 40.4 average to 40.8. The team also jumped from seventh to second place with a 233.8 average. Marietta still holds the lead with 192.2 yards.

Russian Preacher Booked For Talks In This Community

Minister With Bible Group Now

4 Local Churches To Host Cleric

A Russian Christian minister is scheduled to appear in four Circleville area churches within the next week.

He is the Rev. Michael Kerechun, representative of the Russian Bible Society in the U. S. and nearing the time when he will take his oath to become a citizen of America.

Rev. Mr. Kerechun is scheduled to make the following appearances: Sunday, 9:30 a. m. Tarlton Methodist church.

Sunday, 11 a. m., Kingston Methodist church.

Sunday, 7 p. m., Morgan Memorial Methodist church, Columbus.

Monday, 7:30 p. m., Bethel Methodist church.

Wednesday, 7:30 p. m., Circleville Church of the Brethren.

IN EACH CASE, the talks made by Kerechun will be open to the general public.

This native Russian was born of Greek Catholic parents who were forced to flee into Siberia by the Germans during World War I.

The parents and their son were converted to Christianity in what was known as the "great Baptist evangelical revival."

In the late 1930s, Kerechun came to America to study theology. He received training in Chicago, Fillmore college, Buffalo, and International Baptist Seminary in New Jersey.

With the Russian Bible Society now, Kerechun is assisting in a program to get copies of the Bible into Russia and to help build churches there.

He reported here this week that he has little contact with former relatives and friends still remaining behind the Iron Curtain. He said his letters are unanswered.

AT THE SAME time, he said he feared writing too much for fear that harm might come to the persons to whom his letters were addressed—all as a result of Russian government action.

He predicts that there will be an upheaval of the present Russian government "within the next two or three years" and that it will come, not as the result of a revolution by "little people" but because of disagreements among Kremlin personages.

Rev. Kerechun

Street Cleaner Kills Driver

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2—Talmadge Hemsley, 29, of nearby Solon, was killed when he was crushed by a street cleaning machine he was operating in Shaker Heights.

Police said that Hemsley, a Shaker city employee, was making a turn with the street cleaner late yesterday, when he was thrown from it. The machine rolled over him and pinned him to the street.

Members of the juries then followed their own recommendation by signing pledges to give blood to the Red Cross.

Knox County Grand Jury Due To Tell Names

MT. VERNON, Nov. 2—Persons named in 15 secret indictments by a Knox County grand jury after a four-week gambling investigation will be arraigned Monday.

Judge J. S. McDevitt said the defendants need not be arrested, but that the sheriff must notify them to report in court at that time.

Eight of the indictments are for gambling, two for unlawful commercial card playing and five for perjury. Names of the defendants will not be disclosed until the summons are served.

Prosecutor Creed Joplin said charges of slot machine possession under the state's new anti-slot law were not mentioned in the report.

The indictments followed a series of raids in which 28 persons were arrested for gambling violations.

Ohio's Labor Tiffs Decline

COLUMBUS, Nov. 2—Labor troubles lessened about 32 percent in Ohio during the first nine months of the year.

State Industrial Relations Director Albert A. Woldman said work stoppages in that period brought about a loss of 1,313,859 man-days of employment compared to 1,937,450 man-days in the first nine months of 1950.

At the same time, Woldman said, Ohio recorded its second highest period of employment.

The raids were instigated by an investigation conducted by a citizen's committee.
